

To all students:

March, 30 2012

Ritsumeikan University, Dean of Academic Affairs
Dean of Faculty of International Relations

Course Registration (ATTENTION!)

The 2012 course registration schedule is as follows.

○Jizentoroku (Advance Registration)

Mon, April 2 2012 ~ Fri, April 6 (11AM)

○Regular Course Registration

Mon, April 9, 2012 ~ Fri, April 13, 2012 (11AM)

Earning credit (academic assessment) involves both attending classes and daily study outside the classroom. But before all this, it is of utmost importance that all students create a one-year course plan.

Each year, although the number is small, there are students who fail to register for courses by the registration deadlines. In the first place, meeting a deadline is a basic rule in society, one that applies equally to students. When you do not meet a deadline, it not only causes disadvantages to yourself such as no longer being able to choose the courses/classes you wish to take or not being able to have required certificates issued for job-related activities; it also adversely affects instructors and the preparation done in the administrative offices.

I have high hopes that all students will make an earnest effort to meet the registration deadlines and create their own courses plans.
