

AY2025 Application Guidelines for Ritsumeikan University Early-career Researcher Development Program

1. Purport of the Early-career Researcher Development Program

Developing early-career researchers is an important issue in building a next-generation research university with the Ritsumeikan Knowledge Nodes concept at its core, as set forth in the R2030 Academy Vision. In the Fourth Ritsumeikan University Mid-term Plan for Research Advancement, the basic goal is “to realize a next-generation research university that generates new social symbiotic values and emergent human resources,” and one of the University’s visions is to enhance individual research capabilities by providing support for early-career researchers and other researchers according to their career stage as well as by providing basic research support. As such, this program will be implemented to nurture early-career researchers who are expected to be active in domestic or overseas education/research institutions or companies (as research workers). It aims to help early-career researchers who have obtained their degrees at the University cultivate their research capabilities within the network of researchers at the University’s research centers, etc., and to facilitate the creation of research results that will lead to the acquisition of their subsequent career posts. The program also attempts to nurture human resources who will become core researchers at the University in the future, and who will be able to play an active role while involving other researchers.

The research focus is not confined to specific fields, but covers all fields from Humanities and Social Sciences to Natural Sciences. We offer recruitment for all levels, from basic research to applied research.

For this year’s program, we would welcome the active participation of female researchers, based on the policy of enhancing research capabilities through the promotion of gender equality and the establishment of a diverse environment at the University.

| Expected roles to be played by host faculty member | The host faculty members shall focus on forming a career path for Senior Researchers employed in this program and also make efforts to be kept informed of their career path. |

^{*1} Those who have been employed as Senior Researchers on a budget other than this program can also apply; however, the number of consecutive renewals of employment contract is limited to four times.

In addition, please understand that those who are employed by the University at the time of application will be required to resign from your current position when adopted for this program. If any points regarding your eligibility are unclear, please make inquiries before applying.

^{*2} Please refer to the following URL for the Ritsumeikan University Work Regulations for Fixed-term Research Staff.

https://www.ritsumei.ac.jp/research/member/researcher_appointment/ra02/file/yukisyokuin_syugyouk_isoku_english.pdf

^{*3} For example, if the expected length of employment of the host faculty member is two years, the applicant's research plan should be for up to two years.

^{*4} We expect Senior Researchers to actively utilize and participate in the programs, such as the "Rice Ball Seminar," that each Research Organization conducts to help early-career researchers further their career.

3. Screening procedure

- 1) The Screening Committee on Advanced Research Programs screens applications based on evaluation items and determines adoption/non-adoption.

- 2) Conduct hearings through interviews or e-mails as necessary.
- 3) Report the screening results at the Screening Committee to the Committee on Research Administration.
- 4) Based on the screening results, the Steering Committee of each Research Organization determines employment.

4. Screening criteria

Based on the following criteria, make a comprehensive judgment and decide adoption/non-adoption, having screened the submitted Research Plan and Development Plan.

| Target | Screening criteria | Score |
|---------------------------------|--|-----------|
| Applicant | (1) The applicant has sufficient potential to be an excellent researcher who will play a leading role in the future of academia. | 10 points |
| | (2) Based on their research experiences, research achievements are excellent, and their abilities to carry out the research plan in cooperation with other researchers in the University and the preparation status of the said research are demonstrated. | |
| | (3) The research plan is specific and of high-quality. | |
| | *Adoptees for Research Fellowships for Young Researchers by the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS) or those who are currently on the waiting list are taken into consideration for the score. | |
| Host faculty member (reference) | (1) Development plan (2) Details of research framework, support for research network formation, career path, and dissemination of research results *Clearly state if there is a specific research project, etc. in which the Senior Researcher is expected to participate. | |

*Based on the policies of promoting gender equality and establishing a diverse environment at the University, female researchers will be given priority if screening results based on evaluation items are comparable.

5. Notification of screening result

Regarding notification of screening results, we will inform the applicants by e-mail on Wednesday, January 29, 2025 (tentative).

6. Handling of application documents and personal information

- (1) Submitted materials including the application form and supporting documents shall be used for screening only.
Please note that submitted materials will not be returned.
- (2) Personal information obtained from the application form and supporting documents shall not be used for any purposes other than that of screening.

7. Application procedure

(1) Host faculty members

- Host faculty members shall prepare a development plan and submit it during the application period using the Form at the following URL.

To the host faculty members

Ritsumeikan University Researcher database (hereinafter referred to as Researcher DB)

Researcher DB is a database for publishing research achievements and profiles on the internet.

The research achievements entered in the Researcher DB will be the materials for screening, so we would kindly request you to enter as much information as possible. For details, please visit the website of the Division of Research: (https://www.ritsumei.ac.jp/research/member/researcher_login/index.html) (in Japanese/English)

How to Apply for the AY2025 Early-career Researcher Development Program on the Web
