

Sanctions Workshop

“Sanctions as a Foreign Policy Tool: Assessing Impacts and Challenges”

1:30 - 3:00 PM – Session I

Prof Sachiko Yoshimura, Kwansei Gakuin University

The Evolution of UN Sanctions and New Challenges

Shunichi Fukushima, Ministry of Finance of Japan

The UN Financial Sanctions

3:15 - 4:45 PM – Session II

Alexander Dmitrenko, Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer

Iran Sanctions and US-China Trade Wars

Prof Takehiko Yamamoto, Waseda University

Why Don't the UN Sanctions Regimes Work Well?: the Case of UN Sanctions against the DPRK

5:00 - 6:30 PM – Session III

Dr Nigel Gould-Davies, Mahidol University/ Associate

Fellow, Chatham House

Russian Elites and Western Sanctions

Dr Maria Shagina, Ritsumeikan University

Russia's Response to Sanctions: Import Substitution and Pivot to Asia

7 SEPT
2019

This workshop seeks to gain a better understanding of sanctions as a foreign policy tool, their intended impacts and overriding challenges. This is crucial given the proliferation of sanctions regimes worldwide, their disputed effectiveness and unintended consequences. During the workshop the following questions will be raised:

- What are the opportunities and challenges for sanctions as a political instrument?
- How do target states respond to sanctions and what effects do sanctions have on third parties?
- What are the best practices for the design, implementation and enforcement of sanctions?

Organized by College of Policy Science and the Research and Development Institute of Regional Information (RDIRI). Contact: Dr Maria Shagina (maria.shagina@gmail.com)

Venue: 4th Floor,
Building B, Room
B412

Osaka Ibaraki
Campus (OIC)
Ritsumeikan University

Open to the public

R RITSUMEIKAN